APPENDIX 1 - SELF-STUDY GUIDE

The Department of Education is charged by statute to conduct an evaluation of each educational service cooperative at least once each five-year period. In order to meet the provisions of the statute, the Commissioner of Education has determined that each education service cooperative will participate in an evaluation process that culminates with a one-day visit during the 2017-2018 school year, and every five years thereafter, by an evaluation team that meets the stipulations of the statute. This Self Study Guide provides a resource guide, such that when fully implemented, will meet the structure as outlined.

The Department of Education suggests the following steps so that the format will be consistent across each evaluation visit:

1. An assigned ADE staff member will organize the evaluation teams, coordinate the evaluation visits, and work with the regional service cooperative staffs to establish a schedule for the visits to be completed by the end of the school year.

2. This Self Study Guide organizes the statutes that authorize and provide structure for the management and programming of the cooperatives. Three areas of review are suggested:

- User Satisfaction and Service Adequacy
- Staff Qualification and Administrative Effectiveness
- Extent of Local Financial Support

3. Prior to an evaluation visit, the local staff of the education service cooperative shall conduct a self-study and prepare a written summary that can serve as an overview of how the cooperative has interpreted and implemented management and programming as it serves the local school districts in the region. These summaries along with all supporting evidence and displays should be available for electronic review fifteen (15) days prior to the evaluation visit. The self-study documents along with summary statements provided by the visiting evaluation committee shall comprise the evaluation documents to be maintained by the Department of Education and subsequently reported to the General Assembly.

4. The Commissioner will project a list of individuals to compose the visiting evaluation team in keeping with statute. The director and teacher center coordinator of each education service cooperative may suggest potential visiting evaluation committee members and should concur in the team composition prior to it becoming a final list. ADE staff will contact each proposed visiting evaluation committee member and confirm his/her participation in the evaluation visit. The agenda for the day shall include an orientation of visiting evaluation committee members to the evaluation process and a discussion of expectations of visiting evaluation committee members at the close of the day.

5. A calendar for the evaluation visits will be proposed by ADE staff with agreement from the education service cooperative staff.

6. The ADE staff member assigned to the team will serve as chair of the visiting evaluation committee.
